Whether you like it sparkling and bubbly or soft and smooth, Château Léoube has got you covered with its new organic rosé wines. With notes that take you back to one of the oldest Provençal wineries near St. Tropez, this rosé offers just the right fit for everyone's taste.

BELLA got to try the Bamford family's delicious selection of rosés, and between all of the beautiful bottle designs and individual notes, we couldn't decide which one was our favorite. You'll just have to see for yourself and try them all!

Léoube La Londe

“Rosé in colour and style, with a richer texture and mouthfeel, reminiscent of a white Burgundy. Whilst dry and crisp, there is fine intensity of strawberry and white peach fruit.”

Secret de Léoube Rosé

“The colour is delicate, clear and bright. The nose offers a bouquet of subtle flavours: pears, peaches and citrus fruits. The palate is elegant and full.”

Rosé de Léoube

“The delicate aromas reveal scents of honey and soft red fruits. There is an unmistakable scent of mint, evoking the herbs that grow wild around the vineyards.”

Sparkling de Léoube

"With delicate tones of hazelnut, aniseed and soft fruit, it is unusually dry for a sparkling wine and noticeably moreish. Best served as an aperitif."

If you can't make it to the south of France to grab a bottle (we admit we have a flight search open as we speak), give it a try at select restaurants in NY and MA or get your own now at www.winex.com and stock up on this rosé to make summer last as long as you want it to!*
